Course Overview
In this course, we will examine Italian literature’s canon of major writers (maggiori), from Dante, Petrarch, and Boccaccio, the ‘three crowns’ (tre corone) of the 14th century as Italians call them, through to Giacomo Leopardi and Alessandro Manzoni in the 19th as well as other names who have their places in the canon assured (from Giovanni Verga, Italy’s leading realist novelist, in the late 19th century, to Eugenio Montale, who produced some of the best poetry to be written in Europe in the century that followed). For the primary texts, we will also consider their reception in a comparative perspective in order to evaluate the “impact” they have had and still do have on the history of western literature.

The course will follow a roughly chronological order – starting with Dante, Petrarch and Boccaccio, and ending with Eco.

Course Requirements

1. Attendance, Class Participation & Homework Preparation (15%)

Attendance & Class Participation: Attendance and informed participation at all class meetings is required. This means that you show up to class on a regular basis and complete your assignments on time. The entire success of the course is that you get involved, get interested and get motivated to the history of a world which in many ways produced our own.

Requirements for class attendance and make-up exams, assignments, and other work in this course are consistent with university policies that can be found at:
   https://catalog.ufl.edu/ugrad/current/regulations/info/attendance.aspx

   1. Class begins promptly. A student is counted as being tardy if he/she comes in after class has started.
   2. A student is counted as being absent if he/she fails to attend the class.
   3. The student’s final grade will be deducted by 1% from his/her final grade for each unexcused absence after the second unexcused absence of the semester.

Should you miss a class for any reason, you are responsible for informing yourself as to what was covered in class. Except in the case of certified illness or other UF accepted excuse, there will be no make-up option for missed exams/assignments. Where possible, makes-ups should be arranged prior to absence. Alternatively, students should contact me on their return to classes.
Homework Preparation: you should complete the reading or viewing by the assigned class period and be ready to discuss it.

The use of cell phones is prohibited. Phones must be silenced and kept in your backpack. Computers may be used exclusively for text access. Failure to comply with these requirements will result in a greatly reduced participation grade.

2. In-class tests (30%)
The there will be 2 non-cumulative tests during the semester. The first test will consist of multiple choice and/or short paragraph answers and is scheduled for February 23. The second test will be an oral exam (April 13 and 18). Further details will be provided in class closer to the exam dates.

3. Quizzes (15%)
There will be 2 quizzes during the semester. These will consist of multiple choice and/or short paragraph answers and are scheduled for January 24 and March 28. You can expect the quizzes to last about 20-25 minutes, with regular class continuing afterwards.

4. Book critical analysis (40%)
For this class, you are required to write a critical analysis of a literary work selected from Italian literature’s canon.

Here some ideas:

Your analysis should be in Italian and 3–4 typed pages long (double-spaced, one-inch margins). It will not due until April 27 (11:59pm, to be emailed to sara classics@ufl.edu). A book analysis is not a book review. Therefore, a book analysis is more than a summary of the content (even though this is an important component), but a critical study of the book and its reception in the history of literary criticism. We will discuss further details in class.

Work on this final project will be divided into 3 parts: selection of the book (due January 26, 7%), preliminary outline & bibliography (due March 21, 13%), and the book critical analysis (due April 27, 20%). Your work must be submitted on the due date unless you have asked for and received permission to extend the deadline or unless you have a valid excuse. Your critical analysis will be graded with regard not only to content and organization, but also to presentation, grammar, spelling, and punctuation. Your research should be documented accurately. Secondary sources, whether textual or internet based, must be acknowledged. Unattributed use of sources will earn you an E for the course. Papers must be emailed to saraclasics@ufl.edu by 11:59pm on Thursday, April 27.
