Course Description: This course will explore a varied sampling of Italian portraits of the nonhuman animal. Our itinerary will be, for the most part, chronological, as we examine literary animals such as dogs, cats, goats, mice, donkeys, and flies, created by authors, poets, and directors, including Verga, Svevo, Marinetti, Tozzi, Morante, and Frammartino. These animals are not only characters within poems, stories, novels, or films, but also serve as a trigger for philosophical and ethical considerations of the relationship between human and nonhuman animal. This consideration encompasses a range of topics including but not limited to: the differences that (purportedly) separate the human from the animal, the speciesist legacy of humanism and anthropocentrism, human agricultural and industrial instrumentalization of animals, duties of care, companionship, human-animal communication, shared vulnerabilities and mortality, animal joy and animal thought. Over the course of the semester, we will consider these and other issues as they emerge from our reading. Students will be expected to contribute actively to in-class discussions. This course will, to a lesser extent, address students’ language skills through in-class discussion, guided reading, oral presentations, and short papers.

COURSE MATERIALS WILL BE MADE AVAILABLE ON CANVAS.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Unless otherwise indicated, written assignments should be emailed directly to dambers@ufl.edu

1. Class Participation (10%): In class, you should be ready to speak, ask questions, and engage with the opinions of your colleagues. It is not expected that you deliver your opinions regarding the texts in an always grammatically accurate Italian. Class participation is not about having all the right answers. Instead, participation is a question of preparing your homework and being alert and active in class. It is about expressing your doubts and uncertainties about our texts as much as it is about sharing your opinion on this or that author’s representation of animals. It is also a question of listening to your classmates’ opinions and responding when and where you can. Your participation grade will reflect your overall attitude and willingness to engage with the work. It will also reflect the degree to which you have prepared your reading homework and the quality of your interventions in class. You will find a participation rubric on the last page of the syllabus.
2. Worksheets (15%): You will be expected to submit a weekly worksheet, beginning with Verga and ending with Morante. You will work with the same questions each week. These will not be complex, but will cover issues such as human and/or non-human characters, status of non-human animal, environment described, tone of authorial voice, ethical potential of text, etc. You do NOT need to include reference to critical articles in the worksheets – you may simply write about our literary readings. While some of the questions do have a “correct” answer, you should consider this exercise as more of an aid to your reading rather than a quiz. Moreover, in grading them, I will be more interested in the effort you expend rather than whether all your answers are “correct.” You will lose just under 2% every time you fail to submit your completed worksheet. There will be 8 sheets in total. Unless otherwise indicated, you should email your worksheet by 9am each Tuesday

3. Critical Commentary/ Explication de texte x 2 (10% + 15% = 25%): You will be expected to write 2 critical commentaries on 2 of the texts studied. In each case, you will choose a text or a section from a text and analyze the details (lexical, structural, thematic, etc.) of this excerpt, addressing the content of the piece and, as appropriate, how this piece serves to illuminate something important about the entire work, the author’s understanding of animals and animality, social period, etc. We will discuss techniques in class. The first explication should be written in English and should be at least 2 pages in length (Microsoft word; double-spaced, 12 pt. font; 1-inch margins); it is worth 10% of your final grade. The second explication should be in Italian and should be 3 pages in length (same formatting); it will be worth 15% of your final grade. Critical commentaries are due on September 19 and November 5.

4. Critical Reading Presentation (5%): Together with 2 classmates you will deliver a presentation of the critical reading associated with one of our authors. You will read the article and present a summary with a PPT or similar visual aid. These secondary readings do not cover all aspects of the authors’ representation of animals so your presentation should also reference any remaining questions you have about your author, his/her historical period, and his/her representation of animals. You should also be prepared to answer, with my help, any questions the class may have about the secondary reading. Presentations will be scheduled during the third week of class.

5. Mid-semester Presentation (10%): Working in a group of 3-4 students, you will prepare a presentation (10-15 min) to be delivered at mid-semester. This presentation should provide an analysis of a film or text not studied over the course of the semester. Your group will be expected to select and analyze a text or film and deliver your findings to the class. Each member of the group will address a different aspect of the selected text/film. Possible films and texts will be discussed during the semester. Presentations will take place on October 22 & October 24.

6. Final Discussion (5%): We will close the semester with a broad and relatively informal discussion (in Italian) of the animal question. All students will be expected to contribute to this discussion --- ideally each student will contribute at least 4 times to the discussion. Your grade for this assignment will reflect the quality of your content, the accuracy of your Italian, and the frequency with which you intervene. Discussion will take place on December 3.

7. Paper Proposal (5%): For the final paper you will work with a topic of your choosing. This proposal will be a paragraph length indication of your planned topic or area. It should contain a working title, a thesis statement, and a brief indication of your planned direction. We will discuss possible topics in class closer to the date. The proposal is due on November 19.

8. Final Paper (25%): You will write a research paper in Italian of at least 6 pages in length (Microsoft word; double-spaced, 12 pt. font; 1-inch margins). This paper should reflect your original thinking and research on an aspect of the animal question as elaborated in the work of one or more of the authors studied over the course of the semester. Papers must be submitted on the due date unless you have received permission to extend the deadline or unless you have a signed medical excuse explaining your delay. Late papers are penalized and receive no comments. Papers will be graded with
USE OF SOURCES WILL EARN YOU AN E FOR THE COURSE.
The final paper is due via email (dambers@ufl.edu) by 9pm on December 8.
