Course description

In comparison of their languages with African languages, this course aims at enabling students to develop the ability to critically examine how languages people speak affect or influence the way they perceive and construct their view of the 'real world'. How does the language we speak affect our behavior? How do we organize 'reality' by means of our languages? Is it possible to understand other people's worldviews by examining their languages? We will think about these and other related questions by reading and discussing examples from English and African languages that have native speakers on the campus and around Gainesville. Course assignments will include Students conducting mini interviews with African language speakers, writing short essays and do brief oral presentations throughout the semester.

Required texts

Selected articles will be scanned and sent to students a week before the assigned dates.

Responsibilities, Assignments, and Grading

Reading assigned articles, interviewing your assigned native speaker and attending class are of course the keys to the success of this course. They are the foundation for what goes on in the course. Every individual's active participation is expected. The material discussed in this course guides us to rethink about the role of languages we speak in shaping and/or reflecting our thinking and actions.

Your course grade will be based on a combination of class attendance & participation, oral presentations, reading quizzes (4) and two (2) short discussion papers. The breakdown of the grading is as follows:

Class attendance and participation	10%
Oral presentation/discussions (3)	40%
Reading Quizzes (4)	20%
Short Discussion papers (2)	30%
	<hr/>
TOTAL	100%

The authorized letter grades (A, B, C, D, E) are as follows:

A = 95-100; A- = 90-94; B+ = 87-89; B = 83-86; B- = 80-82; C+ = 77-79; C = 73-76; C- = 70-72; D+ = 67-70; D = 63-66; D- = 60-62; E = 59 and below.
