Course Description and Objectives: This course material and class is in Italian. This course explores a sampling of social and cultural questions facing contemporary Italian society. Topics such as millennial identity, social media, multiculturalism, and environmentalism, among others, will be explored through a selection of readings and viewings. The central focus of this course will be oral production. Accordingly, the assignments include several presentations and the expectation is that students will participate actively in class discussions. Thus, while there will also be written assignments, the ultimate goal is for students to refine their oral skills working on the tone and register of language in cultural contexts.

Course materials: All materials will be available via Canvas.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

1. Attendance & Class Participation (25%):

Attendance & Makeup Policy: Attendance is mandatory and will be assessed by roll call.

Late arrivals and early departures will be taken into consideration and lower your grade. Students will lose 1% from their final grade for each unexcused absence. Absences will be excused in accordance with UF policy. Acceptable excuses include illness, religious holidays, & military obligation:

<https://catalog.ufl.edu/ugrad/current/regulations/info/attendance.aspx>.

*Should you miss a class for any reason, you are responsible for informing yourself (by contacting a classmate, not the professor) about the content covered/assigned, and for coming back to class prepared. Take a few minutes during the first week of class to exchange your phone number and/or e-mail address with two or three other students.

Except in the case of certified illness or other UF accepted excuse, there will be no make-up option for missed exams/assignments. Where possible, make-ups should be arranged prior to absence.

Class Participation: For obvious reasons, participation is a crucial component of a conversation class. Accordingly, your participation and attendance is worth 25% of your final grade. When you come to class, you should be ready to speak in Italian, ask questions, and engage with the opinions of your classmates. However, it is absolutely not expected that you deliver your opinions in a sophisticated and always grammatically accurate Italian. It is entirely normal that you make errors of expression or grammar at this stage of your studies. Moreover, class participation is not about having all the right answers. Instead, participation is a question of preparing your homework and being alert and active in class, speaking most importantly! It is about expressing your doubts about our readings as much as it is about sharing your opinions on this or that issue. It is also a matter of listening to your classmates, and engaging with their opinions. The success of this class, as well as your grade, depends on your willingness to participate to the full. Please do not be shy! There is no make-up for participation. The last page of the syllabus provides a grading rubric for participation.

2. Answers to questions (15%) and reflections (5%) = 20% (Homework): You will be expected to complete and turn in your answers on paper, and write your reflections online on Canvas (using the Discussion tab) on selected topics. Due dates for the Q&A can be found in the calendar at the end of this syllabus, docs with questions and instructions will be posted on Canvas. You will respond to the questions on paper in Italian and write your reflections online in English.

Questions will cover issues related to the content of the readings and viewings. You should view this exercise as more of an aid to your reading/viewing rather than a quiz. Your grade will reflect the effort you expend with regard to the assigned reading/viewing and the level of care you take in formulating your answers and writing your reflections in English. Your answers should be grammatically coherent whether you are writing in Italian or English (only the reflections). More details about homework will be given the first week of class.

3. In class compositions (15%): Over the course of the semester you will be asked to write three in class compositions of 180-200 words. Please see calendar for specific dates. Further details will be given in class. Grading rubric available on Canvas.

*Please notice that your homework and compositions should be entirely your own work. Secondary sources, whether textual or internet based, must be adequately acknowledged. Copying and pasting from internet sources as well as any form of plagiarism will earn you an E for the entire course. You must not contact an Italian speaking relative, friend, classmate or others in order to avail of their assistance with your homework as this is cheating. Under no circumstances students should use online translation programs.

4. Confronto interculturale presentations (2) (25%): During the semester you will, together with a classmate, prepare and deliver two presentations. These presentations will provide an American perspective on issues discussed in our readings and viewings. Essentially your presentations will compare and contrast the Italian contemporary topic with how this topic has developed in the United States. Each presentation is worth 12.5 % of your final grade. Presentations will be scheduled during the second week of the semester and start on the third.

5. Final presentation (15%): At the end of the semester, you will deliver a presentation on a topic related to one of the issues explored in the readings and viewings. You will select this topic in consultation with me. For your presentation you will be expected to research your topic and you should also prepare a PowerPoint presentation. Grading rubric available on Canvas.

Please be aware that your three presentations (total) will have to be on three different topics.

Final Grade:

- Attendance and participation, 25%
- Answers to questions and reflections (homework), 20%
- In class compositions (3), 15%
- Confronto interculturale presentations (2), 25%
